

Business Continuity Plan

Ellsworth believes that an advisor's fiduciary obligation to its clients includes the obligation to take steps to protect the clients' interests from being placed at risk as a result of Ellsworth's inability to provide advisory services after, for example, a natural disaster or other business disruption.

Ellsworth's policy is to respond to business disruptions by safeguarding employees' lives and firm property, quickly recovering and resuming operations, and allowing its clients to transact business.

Ellsworth will immediately identify what means will permit it to communicate with clients. Although the effects of a business disruption will determine the means of communication, the communications options Ellsworth will employ include:

- Telephone Voice Mail: (234) 284-2664
